The lecture series commemorates the late John R. Moore, a history professor at TCC for more than 15 years. Moore, an avid historian who believed strongly in the community college mission, died unexpectedly in 2005. His wife, Gay, has honored her husband's support of TCC by establishing a scholarship in his name and by donating hundreds of books and materials from his extensive collection.

The lecture series is sponsored by TCC's History Department, Norfolk Campus and Norfolk Campus Student Activities.
