

PEOPLE IN BUSINESS

November 15, 2009

Jones, Makinen join Wor-Wic

SALISBURY -- Trevor H. Jones of Berlin was recently hired as the dean of occupational education at Wor-Wic Community College.

Before joining Wor-Wic, he was a faculty member at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, Pa., for 14 years, where he served as chair of the information and health management systems departments. In addition, he has about 15 years of finance experience, including positions as auditor, controller and chief operating officer.

Jones received his master's degree in computer science from the University of Maryland Eastern Shore and his doctorate from Drexel University in Philadelphia, Pa.

Carla P. Makinen of Stockton was recently hired as director of grants at Wor-Wic Community College.

Before joining Wor-Wic, she worked as a contractor at the NASA Wallops Flight Facility in Virginia. She conducted research, wrote grants and prepared proposal budgets and project reports.

Makinen received her bachelor's degree from the University of Maryland College Park and her master's degree from the University of South Florida.

Owens honored

SALISBURY -- The Holly Center, a state facility of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's Developmental Disabilities Administration, recently recognized Eunice Owens, as the Employee of the Month for October.

Owens has been employed at Holly Center for two years and is positioned as a registered nurse in the Home Life Services Department. She received her education from the Eastern Shore Tidewater Community College in Virginia. In the near future, Mrs. Owens will pursue her bachelor's degree in nursing.

A native of Pungoteague, Owens has resided in Salisbury for the past three years with her husband, Richard, a quality assurance supervisor. They have 4 adult children; and four grandchildren, Sedric, 7, Jaushaun, 7, Janyia, 4, and Kamyia, 8 months.

Hankins earns certification

SALISBURY -- The physics department of the Richard A. Henson Cancer Institute at Peninsula Regional Medical Center in Salisbury announced that James Hankins has passed his national certification and has earned the title of Certified Medical Dosimetrist.