

The Tidewater Community College Women's Basketball Team starts the 2009-2010 season with a stern test at home, this weekend, in the inaugural "Lady Storm Classic." While the off season was long, the Lady Storm are ready to get back into action and are pleased to play host to this event. This weekend, the Lady Storm will get an opportunity to see firsthand where they stand as they will take on NJCAA member Wake Technical Community College as well as the Lady Trojans of Mount Olive College. TCC will also get a look at VCCS Conference rival, Northern Virginia Community College, who will be participating this weekend also. Admission is FREE for the entire weekend. Support the Lady Storm!